A Story Behind
Every Ingredient

Our Mission

At Artisanal Provisions, we take pride in not just knowing how our specialty ingredients are made, but also knowing the growers, cheese mongers, and families who make them. Because we believe that good food starts with good ingredients, and that good ingredients start with good people.

We've searched and sourced the world, including our own backyard, working with the brightest minds in the business to bring you the greatest selection of specialty items. From the staples to hard-to-find ingredients, you'll find quality and care in everything we offer – from flour to fromage, preserves to pastas.

Discover how cheese should taste

We source our goat cheese, chévre, and boursin from the best dairies out there, from California all the way to France. Our dairies care about all the important details you'd want them to – from how they treat their goats and cows to the freshness, flavor, and creaminess of their cheese.

Beehive Cheese

Uinta, Utah

While we live in an instant-gratification world, some things are worth waiting for. That belief led brothers-in-law Pat Ford and Tim Welsh to establish Beehive Cheese. Together, they have reminded us all of the delicious difference that comes from handcrafted, artisanal cheese.

Made from the creamiest milk in Utah, Beehive Cheese is made with an artisan's patience – mixing and warming for hours, polishing each unique seasonal recipe, waiting for wheels to ripen to perfection – all to create some of the most superior cheese in America for you to enjoy.

From their Irish-style Promontory cheese with its snappy, citrus-like fruity notes to their espresso and lavender hand-rubbed Barely Buzzed cheese with subtle notes of butterscotch and caramel, each authentic Beehive Cheese demands you slow down to experience its full flavor and entices you to try another.

Columbus Craft Meats

San Francisco, CA

Columbus Craft Meats has been committed to creating great-tasting salami for over 100 years. From sourcing only premium cuts of meat and the best ingredients to slowly roasting or curing them until they're ready, you can taste Columbus's constant pursuit of perfection in every bite.

Making quality meats is an art and a science. That's why Columbus doesn't take shortcuts. It's why they take the time to carefully select each one of their spices. Why they only use premium cuts of pork and beef. And why they take the time to slow-age and slow-roast all of their Italian specialties. They've done it this way for the last 100 years, and they plan to do the same for the next 100.

The king of all seasonings

We search the world for the best, most unique artisanal salts. From the volcanic beaches of Hawaii, to the Himalayas, to the coasts of France, we buy dozens of sea salts in a variety of textures, colors and flavors. They come straight from the source – many harvested by hand – with little to no processing.

Restaurant basics that are anything but basic

Almost every culture in the world has a signature grain, legume or rice. We make it our mission to seek out the best colors, textures and tastes. Like couscous from Israel, orzo rice and cannellini beans from Italy, quinoa from the Andes, lentils from France and even revered black rice from China.

White Toque

Secaucus, NJ

White Toque sources fresh vegetables from European and Latin growers, forging rich partnerships with regional farmers whose relationship with the land spans generations. Their intimate knowledge ensures each vegetable is picked at the peak of freshness before being prepped to perfection by White Toque master chefs.

White Toque is known for its unique flair and considering every detail in an item's final preparation, consistently surpassing the superb quality chefs are looking for. With just one bite, patrons will sense the time and care put into each product – traveling through their senses to the hills of Tuscany, market streets of Paris, France or turquoise blue waters of the Caribbean.

Casa Martinez

Sinaloa, Mexico

Graced with abundant sun and rich soil fed by three rivers, Sinaloa, Mexico is the vast, fertile region from which Casa Martinez salsas hail. Home to the Martinez family since the early 1900s, the family's mastery of Mexican culinary arts and hand-crafted salsa using only the freshest vegetables spans more than a century.

This women- and minority-owned family business has a love of salsa making that begins with the joy of freshly hand-picked tomatoes and vegetables. It's in the smell, color, taste and texture of each ingredient beautifully gifted from the earth, artfully combined to enrich life with enjoyment of their world class salsas.

Casa Martinez authentic Mexican salsa recipes use only the highest quality, all natural ingredients. The proximity of their plants to growing regions enables sourcing fresh ingredients year-round! Artificial flavors or previously processed ingredients, such as canned tomatoes or paste are never used. Each vegetable is hand-picked and fire-roasted to perfection. With four distinctly delicious gourmet and premium varieties, there is a blend that delivers the distinct flavor of Mexico you're seeking in unique bulk dispensing packaging.

Grateful Spoon

Phoenix, AZ

Few things compare to the sensations associated with artisanal, small batch gelato made in an original Italian shop. That's why Grateful Spoon uses the exact from-scratch methods developed in Italy.

Grateful Spoon has shaped deep relationships with local purveyors to source every bit of its 100 percent natural dairy, produce, nuts and chocolate. The same is true for seasonal ingredients, incorporated into flavors in true Italian gelato fashion.

But make no mistake, using the strong Italian tradition as its foundation, Grateful Spoon also takes gelato to the next level by creating modern plays with exotic fruits, herbs and spices – surprising and delighting consumers at every turn.

Grateful Spoon has combined the best of old- and new-world traditions to ensure every small batch of gelato delivers smooth, pure deliciousness hand-mixed to creamy perfection.
